

Community Profile

Many advantages and a wealth of resources are provided for the residents of the City of Oak Forest, a well-established community of over 28,000 nestled among the forest preserves of southwest Cook County.

The Central Avenue Corridor is fundamental to the family, recreational and civic life of Oak Forest residents. It is home to George W. Dunne National Golf Course, well known as one of the best public courses in the country. Acorn Public Library, Oak Forest City Hall, Oak Forest High School and Oak Forest Park District are also located along Central Avenue.

Recreational opportunities abound in Oak Forest. The Park District has a full service Health and Fitness Center and 19 parks located throughout the community. The forest preserves provide walking, biking and equestrian paths for recreational use.

With a METRA station conveniently located at 159th and Cicero Avenue, it is only a short train ride to Downtown Chicago. This, combined with easy access to interstate highways, provides residents and business owners an opportunity to have easy access to both the excitement of the city, or the relaxation of the country. This is an excellent benefit to anyone considering locating in Oak Forest.

The history of Oak Forest extends back to the 1800s. The area currently known as Oak Forest was originally called Cooper's Grove. Mr. Cooper who settled here in the 1830s was said to have been the first president of Bremen Township. A log cabin discovered by later settlers is believed to have been built by Cooper and was the first home built in the township. The community was further established when settlers arrived to farm in the area, sometime in the mid to late 1840s. The Cooper's Grove post office was renamed New Bremen in 1848; neighboring Tinley Park was part of the community known as New Bremen until it was incorporated in 1892.

The earliest reference to the community as "Oak Forest" (probably so named for its proximity to nearby forest preserves and mature oak trees throughout and surrounding the area) is in an 1893 Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway timetable. Oak Forest was incorporated as a village in 1947, and then incorporated as the City of Oak Forest in 1971. It became a Home Rule Community in 1981.
